

re.verse

Merging jazz improvisation with contemporary urban music in a way you've never quite heard by a live band before, re.verse brings you on an instrumental journey through a vibrant spectrum of sounds - classic and current hip hop, r&b, soul, neo-soul, funk, Dilla, future funk, house, afro-latin and tropical rhythms, breakbeats, drum & bass, live remixes and mashups, modern jazz, original songs and more. This one of a kind Toronto based ensemble comprised of 6-string electric bassist/producer/bandleader Damian Matthew, drummer Chino De Villa, guitarist Robb Cappelletto, and occasional synth/keyboardist Todd Pentney, has developed a unique approach to reimagining unforgettable songs from past eras while mingling them with current flavours and grooves, treating their performances just as much like a DJ set as they do a live concert. With a growing repertoire of over 150 cover songs as well as original music inspired by their influences, re.verse uses improvisation to seamlessly connect the dots between different vibes, styles and eras of urban music, while imparting their own unmistakable flavour on all of it.
